Faculty/Staff Achievements

The Association of Computing Machinery's Special Interest Group in Computer-Human Interaction has inducted Professor and Chair Shaowen Bardzell and Associate Professor Munmun De Choudhury into the SIGCHI Academy.

Yong Kwon Cho, professor in the School of Civil and Environmental Engineering, has been named the recipient of the 2024 Computing in Civil Engineering Award by the Computing Division of the American Society of Civil Engineers. The award recognizes Cho's leadership in advancing construction automation and robotics.

Studie P. Davis, academic advisor in the H. Milton Stewart School of Industrial and Systems Engineering, has been elected as the Georgia liaison to the Global Community for Academic Advising Region 4 Steering Committee.

Two research papers published 15 years ago at the Annual Computer Security Applications Conference earned prestigious test of time awards for Wenke Lee, professor and John P. Imlay Jr. Chair in the College of Computing. The publications were recognized for becoming a fundamental part of over 300 botnet and virtual machine research papers.

Elizabeth Qian, assistant professor in the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aerospace Engineering, has been awarded an Air Force Office of Scientific Research Young Investigator Program Award for a new project titled "Inference-Oriented Model Reduction: A New Paradigm."

School of Physics Professor Rick Trebino has received the 2024 R.W. Wood Prize in recognition of his invention and development of techniques for the complete and rigorous measurement of ultrashort laser pulses. The award recognizes an outstanding discovery, or a scientific or technical achievement or invention, in the field of optics.

Schmidt Sciences has selected Kai Wang, assistant professor in the School of Computational Science and Engineering, as one of 19 researchers to receive this year's AI2050 Early Career Fellowship. In doing so, Wang becomes the first AI2050 Fellow from Georgia Tech.
