Beasley Enters the Ring

For most people, wrestling conjures images of body slams, roaring crowds, and neon costumes. For Kevin Beasley, a photographer and videographer in the College of Computing whose work is on display at the Fulton County Library, wrestling is an art form.

In Memoriam

Regents' Professor Emeritus Marie Thursby

The scholar and founding director of Georgia Tech's TI:GER program is remembered for her transformative contributions to innovation, entrepreneurship education, and interdisciplinary research.

Campus Updates

Beyond Advising: Impactful Research Mentorship Series

Graduate and Postdoctoral Education facilitates workshops designed to help research advisors and mentors enhance their skills and develop productive relationships with mentees.

Employees Sought for Video Shoot

Faculty and staff members are invited to be part of a drone shot for a new video about the employee experience. The shoot will take place Thursday, Dec. 4, at 2 p.m. Wear Georgia Tech colors, bring a co-worker, and be ready to yell "Go Jackets!" Contact adam.karcz@comm.gatech.edu with questions.

Human Resources Updates

Self-Assessments Open Next Week

Through Nov. 28, staff members can revisit and update goals set at the beginning of the year. Then, beginning Dec. 1, they can complete their self-assessments.

Annual Alcohol and Other Drugs Notice

As an employee of Georgia Tech, policies are in place to guide behavior and activities — both on and off campus. This message serves as your alcohol and other drug policies notification.
